MEMEL PLEDGED HITLER IN PACT WITH LITHUANIA

BERLIN, March 25 (AP)—Germany and Lithuania were reported today to have come to an understanding on Germany's possible annexation of Memel.

The outcome of conversations between Juozas Urbys, Lithuanian foreign minister, and Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, was described as:

Germany will receive Memel with open arms if and when Memellanders make known their desire to get "home into the Reich."

Lithuania will consider herself rid of unnecessary ballast.

The ostensible cause for Memel's reunion with Germany, however, will be Memel itself—not Germany or Lithuania.

THEN COMES HITLER

The Memel Landtag, meeting March 25, is expected to raise the cry of self-determination with a demand to "get home to the Reich."

Then Hitler's marching columns would enter Memel as liberators.

Whether the Lithuanian attitude was prompted by events in Central Europe or whether Lithuania intended to offer Memel to Germany anyway, Urbys appeared to have become convinced that loss of the 1069 square-mile district would be god riddance.

Lithuania, it was said, would offer attractive economic terms for Germany's purchase of her produce—chiefly grain, butter, eggs and timber.

Although Lithuania was pictured as prepared to find the Memel Landtag "expected," Lithuanian diplomatic quarters were positive their foreign minister had no intention of applying for a protectorate for his country.

WOULD RESIST ARMS

"If anybody tries to enter our country by force of arms, we Lithuanians said, 'we will resist to the last and defend our independence.'"

Both Von Ribbentrop and Urbys were understood to have agreed that settlement of the Memel question need not disturb relations between the two countries.

It was announced at the same time that Count Johannes Dabrowski, German ambassador to Paris, had been ordered "to return to Berlin to report."

French Ambassador Robert Couéandre, called back Saturday by his government, already had left the German capital.

BRITAIN LINES UP STOP-NAZI ALLIES

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Reports circulated in parliamentary lobbies late today that Britain, France and Soviet Russia shortly might issue a joint declaration foreshadowing mutual defense measures to resist possible German aggression.

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today Britain's colossal defense program again would be reviewed as one of three British steps in answer to Germany's eastward drive in Europe.

The others were:

An attempt to rally "anti-aggressor" nations into a "stop Hitler" bloc.

A decision to send a trade mission to Rumania to counter German economic pressure in trade negotiations with Bucharest which have caused widespread concern.

The prime minister made the rearrangement announcement after British officials also had stated the government "may be expected to continue" closed discussions with Soviet Russia on Germany's expanding empire.

Chamberlain spoke after an extraordinary cabinet session had decided to communicate immediately with Soviet Russia, Poland, Bulgaria and the Balkan entente states—Greece, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Turkey.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, disclosed that both the prime minister and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, had been "greatly enheartened" by Washington's condemnation of the German putsch in southeastern Europe and the American reaction generally.

All members of the British government, these sources said, now were convinced that the stand of the United States was one of the first points to be considered in formulating British policy.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky, who has been in contact with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax more frequently than any other diplomat since Saturday, again called at the foreign office for a discussion with Lord Halifax at 3 p. m. (10 a. m. E. S. T.).

Chamberlain was asked whether in view of Germany's acquisition of Czechoslovakia's war materials he intended revising Britain's five-year defense program, which started as a 1,500,000,000 pounds ($7-

DOUGLAS NAMED TO HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—William O. Douglas, 40-year-old chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

French Soldiers In Damascus

DAMASCUS, Syria, March 20 (INS)—Unrest in Europe and North Africa spread to the Near East today as French troops occupied strategic points in Damascus, capital of mandated Syria, "to maintain law and order."

The French government notified the Syrian government that it was taking over all powers necessary to preserve internal security.

News of the sudden French action in Syria occasioned considerable surprise in London, as no previous reports of disorders had been received from that territory.

Formerly part of the Ottoman empire, Syria was placed under French mandate in 1920.

If the nominations is confirmed by the Senate, Douglas will succeed the veteran Justice Louis D. Brandeis, who retired, February 11, after 23 years on the high tribunal.

Although there had been a widespread demand for appointment of a Westerner to fill the court vacancy, Douglas, a former Yale law professor, was appointed from Connecticut.

However, Douglas was born in Minnesota and received his early schooling in Washington state.

Douglas is known as a consistent New Deal supporter.

Recently, he denounced as a "phony" a proposal from the stock exchanges to change trading rules.

This was President Roosevelt's fourth appointment in less than two years to the nine-man court. There was no vacancy during his first term.

Another vacancy would permit him to name a majority of the bench. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes will be 77 on April 11, Justice James C. McKeenleyside already in 77, and Justice Pierce Butler is 72.

Saltonstall Writes On 'Liberal Outlook'

An article by Governor Saltonstall, Harvard '14, appeared today in the Harvard "Progressive," monthly organ of the Harvard Student Union.

Other contributions, appearing in the same issue, include one by the late John Reed, Harvard's former No. 1 Communist, whose body was entombed with honors under the Kremlin, at Moscow.

Under the title, "The Liberal Outlook," the governor's article discusses the "Bill of Rights," embodied in the United States Constitution.

REFERS TO DIFFICULTIES
"Bill of Rights" is a phrase synonymous with the freedom which we enjoy today," the article says.

With what appeared to be indirect reference to recent Harvard disputes over "free speech" by such university figures as Granville Hicks, the Governor writes, in part: "Strict observance of the free speech and assembly provisions of the Bill of Rights often raises a perplexing question of balance between order and liberty."

"No we must reconcile the authority necessary to preserve order with the freedom indispensable to our life. Our government must be strong enough to maintain its existence. But it must know its own strength and not unnecessarily crush liberty."

An editorial in the same issue of the "Progressive" today was titled, "Free Speech for the Bundists."

The John Reed article, part of a longer essay written in 1912, appeared today under the title, "The Harvard Renaissance." It is a plea for "free thought" at Harvard.

Washington Hotel Strike Settled

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The strike of union employees at 13 capital hotels has ended in a compromise.

Under an agreement announced by John R. Steelman, Labor Department conciliation chief, the hotels retained their right to promote, transfer or discharge employees, but agreed to give preference to union members in filling vacancies.

VETERAN FIREMAN DIES

Roxbury Holdup Nets Malden Killers $8000

Slayers of John Wheelock and Patrick ("Paddy") Flynn, his bodyguard, in a Malden dice and card game a month ago, struck again Saturday night by holding up a gambling game in Roxbury, the Boston Evening American learned today.

Four armed and masked bandits, with a fifth man remaining in a car outside, raided a combination dice and stud poker game near Jackson square and escaped with between $8000 and $10,000 in cash.

The combination game was operated by three men, one of whom owned a share of the cellar game in Malden where Wheelock was shot to death and Flynn was fatally wounded.

GANG RAIDS GAME

The second of the three partners in the Roxbury game is now under indictment in Federal court, while the third, was arrested by state police several years ago for possessing a shotgun and several revolvers.

The weapons, it was charged, were found in the rumble seat of a car in the theatrical district.

According to this newspaper's information, the four men in a second passenger black sedan, drew up in front of a Columbus avenue house where the dice and stud games were in progress.

This was at about 10:30 p. m. Saturday, and the four in the car waited until a fifth came along on foot about 15 minutes later, and gave a signal.

Then three of the men left the car and followed him into the building.

Apparently knowing the house well, the leader, pulling out a sawed-off shotgun as he entered, snapped the light switch off and on and said to the 35 to 40 men present.

"This is a stickup. Put your hands up, face the wall and don't make any moves."

Over his shoulder he snapped at his three partners.

"Clear the table of whatever dough is on it and start in on the pockets."

All four of the men wore handkerchiefs over their faces as they entered, but the gamblers present noted that two wore dark glasses above the masks and that one man wore a cap.

Holding the shotgun at alert, the leader shuffled the gamblers into three groups along the walls.

POCKETS ARE RILED

Two of the confederates, each with a revolver in his hand, went along the line, turning pockets of the gamblers inside out and dropping the money into a black bag carried by the fourth bandit.

When one of the gamblers said he had no money in his pockets and a bandit succeeded in finding $200, the gambler got a backhand slap across the face.

A few minutes later a second gambler had a like experience for denying he had money on him.

With the gamblers cleaned out, the four bandits backed out of the room, slipped from the house, crossed the sidewalk to the car and drove away in the direction of Egleston square.

Mother Phones Jailed Girl

CHEER—Mrs. Margaret Butler, mother of Aida Butler, 15, held in Texas jail, talks to daughter over telephone and tells her "everything will be all right. Her son, Charles E. Butler, leans over her shoulder, while Stewart E. Rowe, attorney for the family, listens. In circle is Grace Butler, Aida's 10-year-old sister, holding Aida's pet dog.

Aida's Mother Asks Revenge On Howland, Wants Girl Back

MILTON, N. H., March 20—An anguished mother cried out today against John Henry Howland, 25-year-old wanderer, who took her daughter in a mad 12-state flight from justice after the murder of 61-year-old Grace Horne, February 3.

Outraged by her daughter's plight, Mrs. Margaret Butler tearfully vowed vengeance as she waited for G-men to complete arrangements at Corpus Christi, Texas, to turn Howland and the girl to this state.

For that daughter, 15-year-old Aida Butler, the mother had only sympathy and the offer of all possible aid.

"I want my daughter home with the family where she belongs," Mrs. Butler said.

"But that Howland," she added. "I'm going to the train to meet him. I'd like to wring his neck for what he's done to my poor child."

Trying to console her was her son Charles.

"There won't be any need of a trial if I get my hands on him first," the girl's brother vowed. Howland and the girl who now claims she went along with him in blind fear, are expected to arrive in custody of G-men this week.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

The wandering ex-sailor and musician will be arraigned on a warrant charging the murder of Miss Horne, Milton spinster, who was beaten to death and robbed in her lonely farmhouse here.

Aida, seized with Howland after a freight car brawl at Corpus Christi, is to be held as a witness to the crime, authorities here said. Mother and daughter are reconciled after a fearful 2200-mile telephone conversation.

"Aida, were you there when Miss Horne was killed?" the distraught mother asked.

"I saw Jack kill her," Aida replied. "I don't know what I did then. I went away with Jack before I could realize what happened—I was afraid—and he said he would take care of me. He ordered me to come along with him and I went."

"Did you marry Jack?" the mother asked.

"No," the girl sobbed.

"You don't love him, do you, Aida?"

"No, I never want to see him again."

Weeping bitterly, the girl broke down and then continued:

"Mother, I want you again. I don't want Jack. All I want is to get home. I thought I had lost all my friends, including you and the family."

Mrs. Butler then asked her daughter:

"Why did Jack kill Miss Horne?" Again Aida sobbed bitterly and her mother did not pursue the question.

RETAIN LAWYER

The mother reassured her daughter:

"Aida, we all love you and we are prepared to do everything to help you. Don't lose your courage and don't be afraid. We're all waiting for you to come home, even your little dog, Spider. He waits in your room for you every night."

Mrs. Butler then told Aida the family had retained Atty. Stewart Rowe, former county solicitor and prominent criminal lawyer, to protect her interests. Atty. Rowe later

Boston, N.E. Folks Share Sweep Luck

New Englanders scored early again today with Lady Luck as pay-off tickets were drawn at Dublin in the Irish Sweepstakes.

All who drew tickets on horses scheduled to run in the Grand National Steeplechase Friday have a chance at that golden bonanza, the $150,000 high money, $75,000 second money, $50,000 third, and lesser prizes not to be scorned.

The prize fund this time totaled $6,710,500, not a little part of which was contributed by Americans with a weather eye to the future and a profound faith in the laws of chance.

The total is divided into 13 prize units of $500,000 each, with these divided into the prizes already listed.

New Englanders whose names were already drawn included:

STARTERS

John J. Daley, 468 Gallivan boulevard, Dorchester, drew "Dominick's."

"Follow the Swallow Home," identified as Mrs. Bessie Mueller of 21 Wood avenue, Mattapan, who drew the horse "Perfect Part."

"Grandma and the Children" identified as Mrs. Jennie Labinsky, 62, of 24 Duke street, Dorchester, who drew "Bachelor Prince."

R. I. TRUCK STRIKE MAY SPREAD INTO BAY STATE AREA

"Definite danger" of Rhode Island's truck strike spreading to Massachusetts was seen today by State Commissioner of Labor James T. Moriarty.

He listed Springfield, Worcester, Brockton, Taunton, Fall River and the Cape Cod area as possible trouble spots.

Agreements between truckmen's locals and employers in several of these districts have expired, Moriarty said.

He characterized the Rhode Island strike as a "first blow" in a fight to equalize truckmen's wage and hour scales in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

TRUCKS TURNED BACK

Meantime, truck transportation was practically at a standstill in Rhode Island, with freight terminals and warehouses closed and trucks from Connecticut and Massachusetts being turned back by pickets at state lines.

Union leaders said 3000 Rhode Island truck drivers and helpers were out on strike.

Only deliveries permitted were those to hospitals and institutions. Exceptions were made for certain perishables and beer cargoes, carried under special contract.

All leaves were cancelled for Rhode Island state troopers, who went on 24-hour emergency duty. Police departments throughout the state were mobilized in full force.

PLANS NEW PARLEY

Governor Vanderbilt of Rhode Island called his state labor commissioner, Harvey Saul, into conference, announcing that a new peace parley would be arranged, with representatives of striking truckmen and employers participating.

In Massachusetts, Labor Commissioner Moriarty said "watchful waiting" would be the policy here.

Massachusetts truckmen are vitally interested in seeing low scales in Rhode Island and elsewhere brought up to par, he said, because present wage differentials make it difficult for trucks from this state to get return loads on out-of-state hauls.

Greater Boston truckmen, having won a satisfactory agreement with employers, are not likely to be affected by the present strike, Commissioner Moriarty pointed out.

He saw danger, however, of "sympathetic" strikes in other Massachusetts communities.

2 Fined $1000 In Lottery Raid

Thomas J. Day, 46, of Woodward avenue, Quincy, and Virgil O'Brien, 35, of Mt. Vernon street, Gloucester, were fined $500 each in Dedham court today when Judge Clifford B. Sanborn found them guilty of being concerned in setting up and promoting a lottery.

They appealed and were held in $2000 bond each. They were two of nine men arrested by Dedham police Wednesday when an alleged "floating lottery" operating on a state-wide basis was raided in a dance hall as 400 persons awaited the distribution of $14,000 in prizes.

Four men were fined $25 each on similar charges by Judge Sanborn. They are Leon A. Sloper, 51, of Cliff st., Boston, State House employee suspended as a result of his conviction; John A. Hedlund, 36, of Hedlund avenue, Braintree; John H. Bergstedt, 27, of Quincy avenue, Quincy; and Arthur J. Sargent, Jr., 27, of Howard street, Rockland.

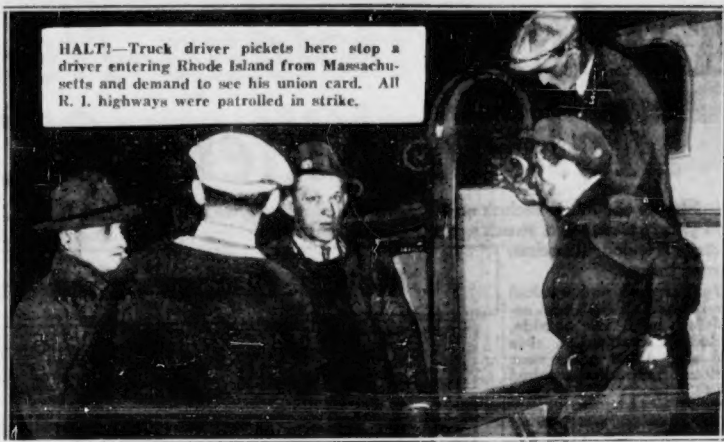

These were found not guilty: John J. Lydon, 28, of Vernon street, Abington; Harold W. Shaw, 44, of Cliff street, Roxbury; and Michael J. Neville, 53, of Bliss street, Taunton.

Swallows Pay Miracle Visit

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Cal., March 20 (INS)—Again the annual miracle of St. Joseph's Day had been enacted as unfailingly as it was annually for the last 162 years and today the swallows of historic San Juan Capistrano mission were back home.

As mysteriously as they return, the swallows disappear somewhere to the south in San Juan's day, Oct. 23. Padres at the mission have observed this arrival and departure on the days of the saints since 1777. Saturday there was not a bird to be seen, but by 7 o'clock there were thousands of them. Today the swallows ousted the sparrows, which every year take over their vacated nests for the winter.

"Girl About Town" comments on Boston events and people every day in the Boston American.

HALT!—Truck driver pickets here stop a driver entering Rhode Island from Massachusetts and demand to see his union card. All R. I. highways were patrolled in strike.

F. R. Asks 30 Billion Bond Limit Be Ended

WASHINGTON, March 20 (INS)—President Roosevelt today advised Congress that the administration has no desire to increase the public debt limit from 45 billion to 50 billion dollars—but at the same time requested that the current limitation of 30 billion dollars on outstanding bonds be eliminated entirely.

In a special message, the President conveyed to Congress a letter from Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau setting forth the Treasury's position.

"You will note from this letter that the Secretary of the Treasury feels that there will be no necessity for increasing the present limitation of 45 billion dollars on the total public debt which may be outstanding at one time," the President wrote, "but does feel very strongly that it will be necessary to increase the present limitation of 30 billion dollars face amount of bonds which may be outstanding at any one time."

Justice Morton Dies; 29 Years on Bench

Death today frustrated the wish of Judge Marcus Morton, 77, that he serve 30 uninterrupted years on the superior court bench.

Unexpectedly, he died in his apartment in the Charles Hotel, Back Bay.

Judge Morton, third of his family line to serve on the bench of his native state, would have achieved his ambition by Sept. 24, of this year, at which time he planned to resign.

Both his father and grandfather served long terms in the judiciary, and both became chief justices of the Massachusetts Supreme court.

READY FOR RETIREMENT

His death came to him shortly after he had finished his breakfast, and was preparing to take up the tasks of the day.

A few days ago he had ordered that his private papers be packed, and that his affairs be gotten ready for his resignation. It was said that his resignation was to be submitted April 1, to take effect in September.

He was the senior ranking justice of the court.

Judge Morton was born in Andover, April 27, 1862, and received his A. B. degree at Yale in 1883. He later attended Harvard Law school, and was appointed to the bench in 1909.

SURVIVED BY SON

In his early days of practicing law he was associated with the late Robert M. Morse, senior justice of the Superior court.

He lived for many years in Newtonville, where he was a member of the school committee. He was also prominent in National Guard affairs.

He is survived by a son, Marcus Morton, Jr., a member of the bar.

Americanism Urged On 250 New Citizens

Addressing 250 brand new American citizens in United States court today, Judge Francis J. W. Ford advised them against becoming entangled with any "ism" except "Americanism."

After he had administered the oath to the men and women who had qualified under the naturalization laws, Judge Ford said:

"Watch out for undermining subversive activities that may attack you. Associate in no way with Nazism, Fascism, or Communism. Stick to Americanism."

Hubby Saves Invalid In West End Fire

Damage was set at $1000 today in a fire which drove a score of persons over fire escapes and rooftops at 100 Poplar street, West End.

Among the rescued was Mrs. Ida Cherrington, 60, an invalid, who was carried to safety by her husband, James, and Michael Fumarola, 17, a third floor resident.

5 Suspects Held In WPA Thefts

Five East Boston youths, dressed in wide-shouldered, narrow-waisted suits, their hair neatly slicked down, were arraigned in Federal court here today, charged with being members of a gang organized to steal and forge WPA checks.

Assistant United States Attorney Arthur B. Carter said secret service men, with cooperation of Boston police, had been investigating the alleged thefts for five or six months.

The five suspects, all between 18 and 20 years of age, were Joseph Cacarillo, Cheever street, Lano P. Ventresca, Webster street, Anthony Bibb, Summer street, Warren Wilkins, a WPA employee himself, and Armando Cericola.

All except Ventresca were charged with forging and uttering government checks. Ventresca was charged with attempting to commit the crime.

HAS OFFER FOR CAROL

LONDON, March 20 (INS).—Great Britain's dramatic "stop Hitler" drive moved into the economic field today when the British government decided to dispatch a commercial mission to Rumania, scene of Hitler's latest plans of expansion.

The announcement was made to a cheering House of Commons by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, soon after word was received in London that Rumania had decided to conclude a trade agreement with Germany, giving the Reich valuable oil and other concessions.

Challenged by Frederick Bellenger, Laborite, as to the wisdom of dispatching the commercial mission in view of "the serious economic demands made upon Rumania by Germany," Stanley replied: "I think that is one of the best reasons for doing so."

The exact object of Britain's commercial onslaught was not made known, but it was apparent that England remains hopeful that by trade and barter some peaceful means may be found of forestalling Rumania's entry into the Nazi orbit of dominance.

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP).—Harry Francis Cunningham today informed Dr. Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires of the German embassy, that "it has become impossible for me to continue in my present capacity as associate architect for the proposed new German embassy building in Washington."

Cunningham, in a letter to Dr. Thomsen, said German government architects have delayed since September sending him data necessary to the work, thus deterring him and his collaborators.

Moreover, he wrote, the events of the past few days were "offensive" to his American ideals.

N. E. Bears Key Load For Defense Arming

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP).—Of the 10,000 industries

the United States depends on for war supplies, one-seventh are located in New England, but their production is far more important than the figures indicate.

Under the new expansion programs of the army and navy the New England factories, navy yards and arsenals will bear the key load in equipping the nation's armed forces.

In the Hartford, Conn., area alone army officials disclosed there were 300 plants employing 200,000 men which have agreed to perform war-time tasks under the provisions of educational orders for which $32,000,000 has been allocated.

This provision, sponsored by Representative Smith (D.), of Connecticut, a member of the House Military Affairs committee, provides for the federal government to install equipment for the manufacturing and processing of various munitions and arms the plants ordinarily would not make in peacetime.

FRANCE MASSES MILLION TROOPS

PARIS, March 20 (AP)—The French government was reported today to have decided upon regional mobilization along the Rhineland frontier as a warning to Germany to keep hands off Rumania, a French ally.

Political sources indicated that the first use Premier Daladier would make of the unprecedented dictatorial powers voted him by parliament yesterday would be an armed demonstration to Rumania that she would not have to face German threats alone.

Unusual secrecy surrounded a hastily-called cabinet meeting but political observers agreed that the first plenary decrees submitted for President Albert Lebrun's signature today, would start the recall of troops and would be designed to bring the French army's standing strength up to nearly 1,000,000 men.

French military measures, these sources said, were tied in with a sudden stiffening of the French and British diplomatic policy after Nazi Germany absorbed a large part of Czechoslovakia last week.

Daladier was reported to have called to the colors 125,000 special fortress troops from the last three classes which have completed their military service. It was also said an additional class of 240,000 men might be summoned.

Robert Coulondre, French ambassador to Berlin who—like the British ambassador to Berlin and the German envoy to London—was summoned back "to report," arrived this morning.

BRITAIN SPEEDS DEFENSE

500,000,000 plan and already has been expanded as a result of past crises.

Chamberlain replied in measured tones:

"As I stated in my speech of Friday, every aspect of national defense must now be reviewed in the light of our national safety and this statement, of course, covers the national defense program."

He indicated also that the government might consider banning sale to Germany of British pig and scrap iron, vital to the manufacture of armaments.

The question of universal conscription rapidly was becoming a political issue in Britain.

Chamberlain promised to provide the House with the text of the agreement signed at Berlin March 15 between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Emil Hacha, president of dissolved Czechoslovakia. The agreement placed Bohemia and Moravia within the Fuehrer's growing domain as a protectorate of Germany.

"As far as I am aware," Chamberlain said, "no written ultimatum was presented to Dr. Hacha prior to his acceptance of this agreement."

Chamberlain decided to defer making a detailed explanation of the British stand, however, pending receipt of replies from governments that are being sounded out on the possibility of joining the united front to "stop Hitler."

KENNEDY IN PARLEY

The prime minister told Commons that Britain "requires to give full consideration" to the tense European situation in conjunction with other powers "before any statement can be made."

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy discussed the situation at length with Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, at lunch after conferring with Lord Halifax.

said that Britain already had taken "precautionary measures in various directions" as a result of increasing international tension.

While these reports lacked confirmation from any official source, it was understood that the precautions included cancellation of leaves to certain army, navy and airforce units.

Rumanians Yielding To Hitler on Trade

BUCHAREST, March 20 (AP)—Rumania appeared ready today to make economic concessions to Germany but stood firm against the surrender of any political rights.

Negotiations between Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, German trade expert, and the Rumanian finance ministry were taking place here. The discussions were said to be approaching a conclusion in an atmosphere of "understanding on both sides."

But it was also asserted that no political problems nor German Rumanian relations were being discussed.

Rumanians admitted their trade with Germany would be increased to a marked degree, but said the complete German demands were not being met.

There was to be no yielding of any political points, they insisted.

It was revealed that German absorption of Bohemia-Moravia considerably affected the Rumanian military position, because many of Rumania's guns and other military equipment were built by the Skoda works, now in German hands. The problem of getting replacements for these armaments was made difficult.

Rumania, like Czechoslovakia before her, looked to the west for help in resisting German pressure.

The biggest news in government circles today was the report that the British cabinet was considering the plight of the Balkans which lie directly in the path of the German "Drang nach Osten"—drive to the East.

As if to guard her rich oil and wheat lands pending some settlement that would not obliterate her independence, Rumania held at least 500,000 men, called from a dozen army classes, at her frontiers.

There was no general mobilization, though, nor were any of the yearly classes called in full. The standing army formed the backbone of the defenses. Authorities said enough soldiers were at their posts to prevent a surprise from any quarter.

Much of the Rumanian strength was concentrated along the southern border of Carpatho-Ukraine.

Russia May Recall Envoy to Berlin

MOSCOW, March 20 (INS)—Despite denials the recall of German Ambassador Count Friedrich Von Schulenburg is anticipated momentarily, well-informed circles in Moscow stated today.

Soviet Russia has decided to discontinue commercial relations with the Reich, these sources said.

BATTLE OVER U. S. POLICY

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—

Sweeping proposals to revise the neutrality act, coming in the midst of tension over Germany's eastward march, reopened today the fiery congressional controversy over American foreign policy.

Administration officials were silent pending disclosure of the text of a formal protest to Germany over its absorption of Czechoslovakia.

On Capitol Hill, however, legislators quickly were taking sides for or against a bill by Chairman Pittman (D.) of Nevada, of the Senate foreign relations committee to let warring nations buy arms in this country if they pay cash and ship them in their own vessels.

The present neutrality law bans such shipments whenever the President finds that a state of war exists.

Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, took issue with Pittman's proposal, advocating instead a prohibition on the sale "directly or indirectly of all instruments of war to any and all nations engaged in armed conflict."

"We will not contribute to mass murder," declared Borah, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations committee.

That committee will meet Wednesday to consider changes in the neutrality act, following President Roosevelt's comment that European developments showed revision of the statute was needed.

Some administration advisers have pointed out that it now would stop sale of arms to European democracies as well as to the totalitarian nations in event of war.

Pittman, who said he had not consulted the President in drafting his bill, declared that the question of benefiting France and Britain was not a consideration.

"The neutrality act has only one purpose and that is to eliminate cases which might arouse controversies which would force us into foreign war," he said.

Fired Dracut Coach Files $50,000 Suit

DRACUT, March 20 (AP)—A dismissed high school athletic coach sued a member of the school committee for $50,000 damages for alleged slander today as 325 pupils who had protested his dismissal by going on "strike" began a return to their classes.

The coach, Spencer F. Sullivan, former Providence College football star, filed the suit against Warren W. Fox, Lowell lawyer and Dracut town counsel and school committeeman. The writ, served today, is returnable in Middlesex superior court May 1.

Sullivan said Fox made the dismissal as coach last Thursday night.
The pupils refused to attend their classes the following day, and sought a public hearing on their protest before the school committee.

The "strike" collapsed today when three-quarters of the 325 pupils heeded the pleas of School Superintendent James C. Riley to return to their classes.

talked with Aida on the telephone and said she had repeated to him in substance the same story she had told her mother.

Atty. Howe said to his young clerk:

"You have nothing to worry about and you must keep up your courage. You're just an innocent victim and we're going to help you and see that you come through."

Mrs. Butler, after talking with her daughter, said she had been convinced since her disappearance that she did not go away willingly with Howland and that she was under pressure to do so.

"We've all tried to help Jack, especially Aida," the mother said. "And all he has brought her is sorrow."

Aida's mother said she had been a witness to the murder of Miss Horne, and had seen the weapon which caused the elderly woman's death.

The murder weapon authorities quoted Aida as saying was a heavy flashlight with which the slayer slugged and battered the defenseless woman.

The flashlight, according to police, was later picked up by Howland and was taken with them in Miss Horne's stolen car as the two fled on their fantastic journey South.

The murder weapon was recovered from the car when it was seized several weeks ago in Pennsylvania at the second-hand auto shop where young Howland sold it.

The weapon, bearing stains which may be blood, and deeply dented, has been in the hands of authorities since.

ON WAY TO BE MARRIED

Two hitch-hikers, temporary companions of Howland and Aida on their strange journey, will appear as important witnesses at Howland's trial, federal agents disclosed yesterday. The authorities have signed statements from both.

To one, authorities said, Howland disclosed his identity and that of Aida, and said they were fugitives from New Hampshire and on their way South to be married.

To another road companion, police charge, Howland not only disclosed his name but even went so far as to say he was wanted for the murder of Miss Horne and that he had committed the murder.

Howland, it was learned last night, has made a number of important new admissions in connection with Miss Horne's murder.

The girl and Howland, expected to be brought back from Texas within 10 days, will be taken to Concord, N. H., and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John S. Jones on fugitive charges.

It is expected Aida will then be turned over to the state and Atty. Gen. Cheney of New Hampshire declared yesterday he will definitely hold her as a material witness.

Working Wife Firings Scored

Though almost 20,000 young women are out of work in Massachusetts today, their problem would be solved by firing married women, it was testified before the legislative committee on state administration at the State House today.

"The controversy over working wives in public service is due to the fact that youngsters between 18 and 24 can't find work," Representative Harry Kalus of Boston, member of a committee considering bills to bar married women from public employment, announced.

He recommended establishing a state youth administration in the department of public welfare. Miss Katherine Lyford, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League, backed him up.

Widower Balks At Romeo Role And Is Stabbed

His unwillingness to play a romantic role in a party in honor of a party Italian immigrant just admitted to this country.

The victim, Michael Alber of Havre street, collapsed in Chelsea street last night.

At the hospital he said the stabbing was organized by a party in honor of a party Italian immigrant just admitted to this country.

Friends and relatives of the injured man, who was taken to the hospital, said that Alber is married.

He declared he said nothing about the party because he was afraid of the police. He said he was afraid of the police because he was afraid of the police.

The police, however, found to him only the worth of the money he had lost. According to the story.

After the stabbing, Alber's relatives were told an Italian police officer and sent for questioning.

Tomorrow 50 prizes of $4210 each and 1300 cash prizes of $500 each are to be drawn.

So far as drawing the live fox cities in the Astoria race, New Englanders had no luck, except in the case of Regal, Mar, drawn by a name to be held in this area.

Tickets held in other sections of the U. S. A., however, drew the live cities which, in addition to Royal Mail, are "Royal Mail," "Red Freeman," "Brendan's Cottage," "Nancy," "Tough Luck," and "Long Shot."

Grandma Labinsky of Dorchester, whose ticket is riding on "Bachelor Prince," is celebrating, not a simple lady, because she cut in on her ticket three daughters, and their husbands, a son, and his wife and four grandchildren.

NO PLANS FOR SPENDING

They are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tarr and two children, also of Duke street; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leavitt of Duke street; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lavine of Normandie street; and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tarr and two children, of Hyde park.

But Grandma Labinsky has no plans yet for spending the money. "Wait until it is won," she said brightly.

Carole and Viola Bailey of Melrose, who is in the electrical business, said they bought their tickets weeks ago.

"And now I'm glad," she said. "I couldn't get this happy again in a hurry. I'm going to pay all my bills and then save all I can."

IDEA FROM FRIEND

Mrs. Jennie Labinsky of Mattapan, who signed her ticket with the pseudonym "Grandma and the Children," had the idea of buying a ticket because there was no room to win the whole thing out.

She got the sweeping idea from a friend, Mrs. Mary Hogan of 111 Addison street, Roslindale, who saw some of the prizes Mrs. Labinsky was holding when she asked what name she would use.

James J. French of Cambridge, who won a ticket, was shown up by a newspaperman for drawing a ticket which is 35 years old and has a magazine of a chain store at the corner wealth address.

He makes his home at 39 Brackett street, Brighton, with his wife, Margaret, and two small children. Twelve years ago French landed here from Ireland and he said, and has been waiting for the chance since then.

"I can always use money," he said of his windfall. "I think we'll put it in the bank."

Although they drew a non-starter, Mrs. Muldoon and Mrs. O'Neal of Brighton were overjoyed when they said they had won $2500, anyway, between them.

"What a wonderful!" cried Mrs. Muldoon. "We just happened to buy the ticket together. We're close friends. We're so excited we haven't decided yet what we'll do."

George Cipriano, waiter and Tom Richmond, were at the Copely Plaza, whose prize ticket drew them to Longshot, Scotch Wood, at 100 Bedford st. before their good luck was told.

"Gosh," said Cipriano at his home in Washington street, West Roxbury, "I've been kidding Tom all along about this. Now that it's true, he won't believe it."

TELEVISION EXPERT SAYS:

"It's Refreshing to Let up—Light up a mild, good-tasting Camel"

A BROADCAST IS about to begin. Everyone feels the excitement. Philco engineer Richard E. Waggener knows exactly what to do. He passes Camels, takes one himself... a mild, good-tasting Camel! "It's grand for one's poise to let up and light up a Camel."

RECEIVING with a home set: Mrs. Dorothy Temple, who runs a home, has a job too. She is enjoying a Camel. Like so many women, she finds a delicate fragrance in Camels that is very appealing. "Camels taste so good," she says. "They do have a wonderful mildness."

THE SMILE OF ANTICIPATION: Dick Waggener finds a moment to enjoy a Camel. "Camels are different," he says, "mild, full-flavored. I smoke all I want, and they never jangle my nerves."

250 WORDS PER MINUTE! Harry L. White can take down legal testimony up to 250 words per minute, for he is an expert court reporter. "After catching questions and answers on the fly, hour after hour, believe me, it feels good to let up—light up a Camel. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!'" Camels have the rich, ripe flavor of finer, milder tobaccos. You'll find those choice tobaccos do make a difference!

invasion of alien territory has long been a Russian training point. Here is mass parachute landing of Soviet soldiers.

little juggernauts are these Soviet armored tanks bristling with guns. As far as can be learned, Russia has kept pace with the most modern of nations in machines of war.

Mystery—Powerful, too, is the Russian air force, but just how powerful nobody knows. A cloak of secrecy hides the nation's military strength. Here three giant bombers patrol disputed Jap territory.

The Life of Christ

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"I Thank Thee That I Am Not as Other Men Are . . ."

By COLLIN CLINE

THE PHARISEE decides only himself; he certainly does not include God. That was the lesson of one of our Saviour's most profound parables.

There were two men. He said, one a Pharisee; the other a Publican. And they went to the temple to pray.

Rushing ahead, the Pharisee strode into the inner court, and, in a boastful voice, cried:

"God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this Publican. I fast twice in the week and I give tithes of all that I possess."

But the Publican, feeling himself too unworthy to enter the sacred interior, stood in the doorway, smote his breast, and whispered:

"Please God, be merciful to be a sinner."

The result was that the man who was honest returned to his home with joy in his heart, while the pretended saint went away with the knowledge of having done wrong weighing heavily upon him.

"For every man," Jesus said, "that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

No other parable is more appropriate to the loud, noisy and artificial world of today. Not without purpose does it receive emphasis in churches throughout Christendom.

The picture showing the Pharisee at prayer is the work of the great Italian portraitist, Domenico Mastrioianni, who models his characters in wax and then skillfully photographs them.

TOMORROW, in the Boston Evening American, the story of Christ's holy life continues. And a reverent picture by Heinrich Hofmann illustrates it.

NEW ENGLAND YOUTH deserves praise, and we are pleased to give it. We refer to the brilliant concert by six hundred high school students at Symphony Hall.

Only three days had been available for ensemble rehearsals. Yet the young people played with the smoothness and skill of a long-trained orchestra of experienced musicians.

And, like true artists, they did not restrict themselves to simple works. Bach, Shumann, Tchaikowsky, Elgar, Wagner, Liszt and Mozart were conspicuous on their program.

Notable too, was the large number of girls. One saw them in all sections. Of course, it was not surprising that fourteen of the twenty-six first violins should be in feminine hands. But the women could no longer hardly be expected to see young women playing double basses, blowing wind instruments or pounding drums.

Yet that is precisely what they did, and nobody could say they were inferior to the bigger, stronger boy performers.

Our regret is that the Symphony Hall concert could not be repeated during the next few months in the principal cities of our six States.

Not only would frequent repetition provide many enjoyable evenings for parents and music-lovers, but also it would encourage the spirit of harmony and co-operation which in recent

Human Side of News -I- by EDWIN C. HILL

MANY TIMES in the past, explorers have found "the happy valley of Kasasia, where nobody starves." The idyllic valley in British Guinea, where nobody hates, is something else again. Its discoverer, Dr. Paul A. Zahl of Union College, understandably touches off some sizeable headlines.

A new educational human society to which the cause of color has not penetrated, where nobody's hand is raised against another, where the emotional aspect is unknown, that's news.

NOT ONLY color, but the lack of brotherhood have ruled the land of perfect happiness, according to Dr. Zahl. Apparently it is also a land without fear as the natives were friendly and hospitable and not in the least disturbed by the arrival of visitors from another world. Dr. Zahl contrasted these aborigines with others who have long been in contact with white men. The inference from his report is in compliment to our civilization.

In their high mountain gorge, these amiable dwellers on the Ushili River have natural pro-

The people are perhaps unique in this planetary life-laboratory because of the isolation which has made them secure against attack, and because of the fertility of their country which has freed them from the fear of want, always a worry to mankind.

If later research finds that this attainment of complete felicity is assured and permanent, it will be something for anthropologists to write home about.

It will be a score for old Jean Jacques Rousseau who, in his "Social Contract," assumed the innate goodness and decency of man. It will also be a score for melliorists, reformers and Utopians who have maintained that the mass of mankind would be essentially wise and virtuous if it could get rid of its exploiters and oppressors.

IN THIS garden of Eden in British Guinea, they have not, of course, pertaken of the fruit of the Tree of Knowledge. They haven't much and they don't want much.

That clicks nicely with the late William James' definition of happiness, in which desires are the numerator and wants the denominator. Boost the former too much in proportion to the latter and you get unhappiness.

There are those who think that's what's the matter with modern man.

Girl About Town -I- by ANN MARSTERS

WE SHOULD IMAGINE, in our young innocence, that it would be a reverse result to turn a line of Harvard athletes into a line of chorus girls.

But now we are told that it isn't as difficult to teach dance routines to the star athletes as it is to teach them to a line of honest-to-goodness girls.

Paul Anderson, who has been director of Harvard's Phi Kta club show for the past nine seasons, insists that the boys learn more quickly than do girls—which are fighting words, in case any of you want to challenge the Harvard heffies.

IF THE BOYS had their choice, practically all of them would choose to play a chorus girl role in the show, simply because they get more fun out of it.

But they have to be selected by their appearance and height and quality of voice, says Mr. Anderson. Then they have to practice walking and sitting and crossing their knees—in a feminine fashion.

It takes only about 12 rehearsals to whip the show into shape.

Anti-Trust Laws -I- by HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, March 20. The "verbatim record" of the proceedings of the Temporary National Economic Committee, published by the Bureau of National Affairs.

This is the so-called "Monopoly Committee" headed by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and composed jointly of members of the House, Senate and Executive Departments, to study the American business structure to see what ought to be done about amending and enforcing the Anti-Trust laws.

I try to read the "verbatim record" daily. It is discussing the clearest general picture of American industry that we have had.

IT IS TOO EARLY to say whether its method will change and far too early to say which way its conclusions will point. But some of the running debate with witnesses and among the committee members seem to me to suggest that they will point directly away from the theories of the anti-trust laws as we have known them.

They simply outlaw "combinations in restraint of trade." Nobody has ever known what that straint of trade. Other commercial countries forbid combinations in restraint of trade "which are not in the public interest." They give business some hint as to what it may or may not do. Our anti-trust laws and system practically say: "Act as you please. If you guess wrong you can go to jail."

worked to protect the public as was intended and they have worked to lamp and hinder business. It is appearing from these hearings that one rule will not work for all kinds of business.

It also seems to appear that there should be some change in the law and some kind of Federal tribunal where business could come and learn what it may and may not do.

THAT IS particularly gratifying because exactly that—no more and no less—was the fundamental principle of NIRA. No matter how much in the haste and pressure of the 1933 emergency NIRA fumbled that principle, no matter how many mistakes it made—and it made plenty—that was the economic law of its foundation.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

SINCE NO ONE else would spring a War, we started a dandy for ourselves the other day by asking five million young people (12-30 yrs.) the following question:

"COULD YOUNG AMERICA MAKE GOOD IN THE WILDERNESS IF IT HAD TO START FROM SCRATCH, AS ITS PIONEER PARENTS DID?"

How those answers came crashing in! At least 85 per cent were in the affirmative, which we'd expect. But we hadn't expected the reason which most of them gave. Instead of bawling of their own prowess, nearly all of them gave Grampaw the credit! Said young wife BETTY HARNES of SUNNYSIDE WASHINGTON:

"Could we take it? Of course we could! Yes, I admit we're largely a spoiled, coddled, luxury-loving generation and we may seem to be sissies on the surface. But don't worry—we'd make good in a pinch. OUR FATHERS DIDN'T STRIVE OR SUFFER IN VAIN; THE SPIRIT THEY ESTABLISHED IN US, THE IDEALS THEY HELD BEFORE US HAVE REMAINED UNCHANGED THROUGH THE CENTURIES!"

MARIANNA ROSSI of QUEENS VILLAGE, LONG ISLAND, N. Y., also believed the Old Folks would see Young America through.

"The early settlers were young and ambitious and willing to apply themselves and face any hardship. Youth has always transmitted the virtues of its predecessors. We feel we are our fathers' sons in a different way. BUT WITH THE SAME SPIRIT WHICH MADE THEM INDOMITABLE!"

So they ran the course of those in our happy chorus of confidence. Impressions well written letters... and nine out of ten readers will agree with the argument that Young America can't be licked because "THE GODDAMNED AMERICAN FIGHTING SPIRIT" WOULD SEE THEM THROUGH.

But it wouldn't. I, too, would gladly bet my last nickel on Young America's survival in the West. But it wouldn't be the case of the West, because the West Valley Pioneer is a... by a fellow.

FOR CHALLENGER CAN'T BE TRANSMITTED FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER. DECENCY IS A GIFTMAN. IF YOU CAN'T CASH IN ON GRAMPAW'S PLUCK AND HONESTY, GRAMPAW'S PATIENCE, INDUSTRY AND COMMON SENSE. IF YOU NEED A DADDY AND YOU'LL HAVE TO MAKE IT FOR YOURSELF.

THIS NOTION OF A... the shrewdest and spunkiest nation of the world... fighting fathers but... the... values is The Great American Family.

It wasn't the fathers they... the... missed which gave Grampaw the credit... the... pain in the neck. IT WAS THE ENDLESS SOLITUDE AND CAMENESS OF LIFE.

How long do YOU think you could stand in a virgin wilderness... with visitors... only every two or three months... with no companionship save that of mate and babies?

OPERA MATINEES are so rare in Boston that few of society's music lovers pass over the opportunity of attending the afternoon performances . . . Saturday's audience gave an enthusiastic welcome to Kathleen Grace Moore who was making her first appearance in Boston opera, singing the role of Mimi in "La Bohème" . . .

Visitors to the afternoon went to Hilda Burke, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company who understudies Miss Moore in the role of Mimi, and other artists in similar roles . . . She watched the performance from the orchestra circle with Mrs. John Brownlee, wife of one of the prominent singers in the cast . . . Her costume was enhanced by a small black turban with a veiled veil which was drawn through tiny openings in the strands of her black dress and she carried a natural peacock feather . . . Mrs. Brownlee topped her modish look with a velvet turtleneck and a fox fur . . .

Many youngsters were enjoying their first experience at grand opera . . . Just as interested in the proceedings as the grown-ups, the little daughter of Mrs. Francis MacVough of Cambridge strided with her mother during intermission . . . clutching a tiny round mirror in one hand and a red pocketbook in the other . . .

Like Advance Guard of Easter Parade

MRS. HAMILTON OSGOOD, who looked like the advance guard of the 1939 Easter parade, was accompanied by her small daughter . . . and Mrs. Ann Forbes was escorted by her son, Jimmy . . . Mrs. Osgood's navy wool holoero suit had a crisp white paper blouse to match the crown of her small veiled hat . . .

Costume and look was the color scheme chosen by Cynthia Baker who topped her look dress with a perky little levalliness of courtly costume feathers and black velvet . . . The same colors fascinated Mrs. C. Stewart Black's ensemble . . . she attended with her young son and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart . . .

Nothing turkey sandwiches and sipping lemonade has become as popular as strutting up and down the lobby between the acts . . . Mrs. Sammie Weeks and her daughter, Mrs. Roger Halliwell, made a dash for the refreshment room to join friends and Cynthia Forbes and Isabel Farley shared a table for two after the second act . . .

Elizabeth Parker, who has spent so much time on the executive committee for the Vincent Club show, took time out to relax and enjoy the hitting Puccini music, and others in the audi-

Holy Cross Club Hosts At Dance

The spring calendar of the Holy Cross Club of Boston is dotted with many interesting events for the graduates and their wives. On April 20 all roads lead to the Capley-Plaza where the annual club concert and dance will be staged under direction of William McGilroy of Belmont.

Assisting with plans is an enthusiastic group of auxiliary members directed by Mrs. E. Corbett Walsh of Brookline, the former Norwidge family. She was hostess at tea recently whose arrangements were made for a fashion show, bridge and tea the first day of April in Filene's restaurant.

Cooperating are Mrs. Franklin York of Mrs. Frank Stout Jr., Mrs. Edward McManus, Ruth Canlon, Mrs. John Drummev, Mrs. William Metevier, Mrs. James Ryan, Mrs. Edward McLaughlin and Mrs. Edward Conkey.

Ticket sale is being promoted by Mrs. Bernard Kopley, whose assistants include Mrs. Herbert Gallop, Mrs. L. Stephen Wiley, Mrs. William Robinson and Mrs. C. J. H. Ketchum. Other details are being handled by Mrs. Charles Brennan, Mrs. John O'Brien, Mrs. E. Rogers, Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. Robert Clark.

MR. PHOTOMATHIA'S DANCE APRIL 14

At a tea yesterday at their club house, Junior Photomathia, members made plans for the spring calendar event in the spring calendar, the club's Easter week support dance, April 14, at the Capley-Plaza.

Virginia Faghy of Belmont chairman, was hostess. Assisting for laughter was Mrs. William A. Faghy of Belmont. Pourers were Marjorie Sullivan of Brookline, Ruth Rogers of Arlington, Edith Fitzgerald of Belmont and Mary Finnane of Wellesley.

Jesuit's Talk To Benefit Missions

Jesuit missions in British West Indies is the worthy cause inspiring from a lecture on the Philippines which a group of energetic young Bostonians is sponsoring Monday evening March 27, in the Capley-Square Hotel. Rev. E. Paul Amy, S. J., is the speaker. For of the publication, "Jesuit Missions," will present the illustrated talk.

Chairman of the affair is Louis McAndrew of Brookline, who is assisted by Katherine MacArthur, Anna Madden, Dan by M. K. non, Elsie Mellal, Mary M. Long, Rosette M. Naima, Nellie Murphy, Anna Ruffin and Bernice Lane Thorton.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Chatter in Hollywood: Far be it from me to even hint that the might boys in the Warner publicity department had anything to do with Ann Sheridan being voted America's "Gomph Girl" by 25 million men.

But so that as it may, Hal Walcott has headed there's box office gold in that that title and he's set Earl Baldwin to work whipping up a special story for the redheaded charmer to be called "Gomph Girl."

A great many people believe that Ann comes closer to the Hollywood appeal than any girl since Joan, and you may remember that a bright press agent got teams of publicity for little Harlow with the label "Platinum Blonde." I wonder if Miss Sheridan will do as well with the "Gomph" title?

My secretary pops up with the remark that the plot of RKO's new story, "Five Came Back," sounds like "Trader Horn in an Airplane"—and that's as good a description as any for this next Wendy Barrie-Chester Morris co-starring affair.

Yes, the Richard Carroll thriller, or an other of those adventure yarns dealing with the fate of 10 people aboard a clipper ship forced down in a jungle. One contracts jungle fever, one is killed by a savage, three decide to remain in the jungle and five,

A line or two: Rumors current of a legal headache brewing between Eddie Davis and her former agent, Leonard Heyward... poor Smiley Burnette thought he had the studio locked when he went over Republic's head and appealed directly to the fans asking if they didn't want him thinner than his present 230 pounds as required by his contract. But everybody still loves a fat man because the answer was "no." When Virginia Zuckewitz saw Brenda Fricker's picture in the Los Angeles Examiner she said "There's a year lost for 'Hotel for Women'." But he only laughed and as far as I know I look as if Virginia's been a successful agent for getting her picture in the Los Angeles Examiner. Rumors are that 20th Century-Fox would like very much to borrow Edward G. Robinson for "Steinmetz," the electrical wizard.

Austen Lake: Harris Rates Sox Real Pennant Threat

IT IS VERY SPORTING OF BUCKY HARRIS, the marcelled manager of the Washington ball club, to say in the papers that the Red Sox and Joe Cronin are a sweeter pennant possibility than people give them credit for, and that, if fortune is kind, Joe may throw a miracle next summer.

AUSTEN LAKE

I hope that Bucky is not just bending a diplomatic knee. Because I am pretty sure that he has never stopped drooling envy over Cronin's job, which would still be his job except for a capricious cast of the dice.

Indeed, only last autumn Bucky was heard to renew his sorrow over losing his Boston post, which he once extolled as the coziest corner in baseball. We were sitting under the potted palms of the Commodore Hotel, listening to the soft wail of the dinner fiddles, and Bucky was recalling wistfully how, when he managed the Red Sox in the spring of '34, he never went to bed without giving himself a solemn, thanksgiving handshake for being bossed by so liberal a cash agent as Tom Yawkey.

"Ah Yes!" sighed Mr. Harris. "In my dreams I used to hear the tinkle of World Series coin tumbling into the till." For a while Mr. Harris listened to the strains of L'après-midi d'un faun. A faraway look was in Mr. Harris' liquid brown eyes. "I recall with the utmost clarity," said Mr. Harris, "the night I joined the Red Sox in Washington on their way to southern training. I was happy then!"

THE BOSTON JOURNALISTS RECALL IT TOO. How Bucky's atternoon door had stood ajar that next morning and he could be seen slumbering with his hands cupped to his ears in a listening posture, with a big beanie smile curling up the corners of his mouth. Bucky always slept late those mornings as his World Series dream profits could accrue.

"I felt just like a kindergarten kid let loose in a lollipop factory," mused Mr. Harris.

Indeed it was so! The muscles of his cheeks grew fat with smiling and he would chirp cheerful interviews to the press in a Father Goose babble and glint on the prospect of giving his old Detroit and Washington teams a painful look in the pants.

"I cannot tell you what a paralytic shock it was to me," continued Mr. Harris, "when Yawkey hustled down to Washington late that next autumn and rifled a quarter-million off his bankroll for a combination shortstop and manager."

That, of course, was the day that Yawkey ordered Bucky to climb down from his pedestal so that Joe Cronin could climb up. The shock of it pained Bucky's jinx for quite a spell, so that he couldn't utter the piercing bullers that are customary in such cases. But, when he could whisper once more, he hustled down to Washington to ask to be hired in Cronin's sacred job. Which was done.

Even, by the time Bucky got his voice back, he found he couldn't see it to sell at the Red Sox because he was now drawing his wages from Cronin's father-in-law. So what screaming he drew was inward and silent screaming. He has never ceased to brood darkly in the caverns of his soul and even today the only thing that he likes better than beating the Red Sox a game of ball is to beat them a doubleheader.

INDEED BUCKY HAS NEVER BEEN THE MAN. Much from paying back old scores and though he has always been a charming type to meet over the tea cups, he has also been a spiteful, vindictive, spiteful type, before he quit his playing days prematurely to minister to the bench, which was considered a very robust character characteristic of his throw long.

I don't think they had time to understand me in Boston," mourned Mr. Harris, fingering the pink camellia in his button hole.

Maybe so! For by some odd prank of nature, he was afflicted with a high hand shake, a soprano voice and a love for the grammatical intricacies of speech which strangers sometimes mistake for symptoms of softness. He had also chummed around with George P. Marshall, the Washington architect and archibureaucratic owner of the football Redskins, and liked to tuck around such supercilious social centers as the Mayflower Hotel and the Congressional Country Club. So this led to some misapprehensions among the Washington athletes until Bucky took them, one by one, under the grandstand and fanned out their daylights or came coasting into the bases with his shoe-chisels aimed at their softer parts.

So after a while the players quit holding his social pretensions against him, and since that if he wished to put on a dinner coat and play with the Senatorial set, he was at least entitled to the same cautious respect as any hunk on a coal bank who had fists like Easter hams and knew how to use them.

"STILL," SAID MR. HARRIS REMINISCENTLY, smoothing his marcelled locks, "I did quite well with the Red Sox."

He finished fifth, or was it fourth? Anyway it is likely that when Yawkey decided to untie him, any doubts as to his managerial qualities may have sprung from the fact that, as Bucky acquired new layers of parlor-palish his natural, shaggy interior became smothered under coatings of sissyhood. Yawkey may have considered Bucky too smooth externally for the crude, cow-hand requirements of his job.

So, though Bucky squeezed as much from 1934 Red Sox as any manager could be asked to do, his misinterpreted manner cost him his post and gave Yawkey the sudden inspiration to buy the highest priced shortstopping flesh in the ball business. It was the beginning of a spending jag in which Yawkey bought what he deemed to be whole series of pennants, but which turned out to be just annual flops, until they finished second last summer.

So, considering that Bucky has never quite recovered from the paralytic shock of losing baseball's coziest corner, don't you think it sporting of him to rate our Red Sox a sweet pennant possibility? Or would you say that he is still bending the diplomatic knee?

HOCKEY ATTENDANCE OFF Bruins End Season With Win

By BILL GRIMES

Well, the nightmare is over.

Between the third day of last November and last night's triumph over the club National Hockey League played 168 games to celebrate the celebration.

The Bruins won the league championship and, as trophies, the Chicago Black Hawks' 1936 Stanley Cup winners wound up in the corner.

The celebration performance did not meet with the approval of the fans, however, because of the fact that the Bruins were defeated by the Chicago Black Hawks in the final game of the season.

Attendance was off all night long, and the Bruins were defeated by the Chicago Black Hawks in the final game of the season.

BRUINS' BRIGHT TEAM

Since the first month of the season, the Bruins have been scoring winning goals in a high percentage of their games.

An effort was made to win the game, but the Bruins were defeated by the Chicago Black Hawks in the final game of the season.

Well, the nightmare is over.

One for Les Canadiens as Polly Drouin drives disc past Frankie Brimsek, but it was in vain for the Bruins finally won out in overtime. Score was 7 to 5.

Terrific Test Ahead For Red Sox Pitchers

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 20—When the Red Sox defeated the Bees in 10 innings last Thursday, they started a consecutive string of exhibition games that has no precedent in modern major league annals.

Today was scheduled as an open day for the Sox, but the team was scheduled to play a game against the Chicago Black Hawks in the final game of the season.

VANDER MEER III

Incidentally, with Vernon Vander Meer, who has been one of the best pitchers in the league, the Sox have a very strong pitching staff.

The Sox have a very strong pitching staff, and they are looking forward to a successful season.

THE PHANTOM

UNTOLD STORIES OF THE RING BY JACK CONWAY

(Copyright, 1939, by Boston Evening American and Jack Conway)
A stolid German and a vivacious Frenchman completed a game of pinochle at Madame Bey's training camp in New Jersey. This relaxation enabled them to forget a hard day's training.

The Frenchman was Andre Routis, at the time featherweight champion of the world.

The German was Max Schmeling who was to become heavyweight champion of the world.

Schmeling had come to the United States from Germany under the management of Arthur Buelow who had been a sports writer and manager of boxers in Germany.

"If you are to become a leading boxer you must get a smart American manager," said Routis with enthusiasm. "I was a nobody when I came to the United States. I then went under the management of Pete Kelly of Brooklyn, and now I am featherweight champion of the world."

Schmeling listened attentively as Routis talked.

"I, too, would like to become a champion," said earnestly. "Maybe some day you will introduce me to Kelly."

Routis visited the training camp a few days later, and a conference with Schmeling and Buelow resulted in the completion of a pinochle bout for Schmeling.

SCORED TWO KNOCKOUTS

First Schmeling knocked out Joe Malone of Boston in the New York Garden, and then pinned a bout with Jimmy Rank of Cleveland. He was known as the "trouble maker." His opponents might have been tempted to punch, but he always came bounding back far faster.

The second fight was with Eddie Brown of New York, and Schmeling won by a knockout.

By this time, Schmeling had found himself a champion of the ring.

"Risiko has a sucker left hook to the jaw," advised Kelly during a talk with Schmeling. "He pulls his left hook back to give it power, but if you punch quick with your right you will get inside of Risiko's left hook and knock him out."

Schmeling used to like to cock his right hand.

"Max gets more power behind his right when he pulls it back before he lets it fly," declared Kelly. "It is a poor way to fight against top men, but it won't hurt him with the slow moving Risiko as an opponent."

Routis, known as the "Silver Fox of Broadway," was wise in the matter of boxing styles. He could afford to take chances with an opponent like Risiko.

MAX LANDS KAYO

The crowd that swarmed into the Garden expected Risiko to win by a knockout when it saw Johnny and back a left hook ready for the kill. Then to its amazement, Risiko landed his right hand quickly and before Risiko could release his left hook Max cut inside of it with a terrific right to the jaw.

The crowd was in an uproar when Risiko crashed to the canvas. The stolid German baker had been knocked down for a knockout.

Schmeling became a national boxing sensation over night.

Given Tommy had varied his boxing style to nearly the limit, but Kelly was right, while Jack could release his left hook Max cut inside of it with a terrific right to the jaw.

Arthur Buelow, the Jewish promoter, threatened to quit, and Schmeling said it was time he was no longer a champion of the ring.

Jacob act as his manager.

Schmeling hesitated when offered the Paulino match.

"You will certainly beat the Basque," said Carey.

"Max will knock him out," declared Jacob.

Still Schmeling hesitated, awaiting for the best.

I told Carey I thought I knew what was heading up Schmeling from Paris.

"Max," I said. "You are afraid somebody will attack your purse, and that's why you don't want to sign."

"That's it," replied Schmeling.

"Arthur Buelow or some other promoter may take me to court now that I am making big money."

"Bibi Carey had made millions in the construction business and as chief engineer for Hayden & Stone before he stepped in as head of Madison Square Garden at the death of Tex Rickard."

MONEY IN CANADA

Among other things Carey owned a company in Canada. I suggested to Carey that he could have the garden sign Schmeling that season.

The payment of the money due under the contract in an arrangement by which Schmeling would be paid off by the Canadian company.

Schmeling was delighted when told of the proposed deal for payment of his money in Montreal. He then signed a contract.

Carey had to pay off the bar, and with that, Carey's company was paid off the contract after the fight.

Max fought a careful battle, and when he was set back he cut the Basque down with his hands.

At the end of the fifth round there was a baby punch. I think that was a powerful, cutting punch. He had a good one, and when he hit it had much of a punch. He had an abundance of fighting spirit, and it was only natural that he should be with Franco during the trouble in Spain. I doubt, though, whether Paulino took any more punishment during his experiences in Spain than he did that night in the ball park in New York as Schmeling showered punches at him.

There was talk of a Sharkey-Paulino bout. It was first planned for New York, but was postponed by some of Max's legal counsel.

Jack Breen of the Garden wanted to limit to make arrangements to lead the fight at New York. When all arrangements were perfected, Schmeling took a boat for Germany. He gave as his reason for his hurried departure a desire to see the home land.

The real reason was because the astute Pete Kelly knew that the inexperienced Schmeling was not yet ready for a meeting with Sharkey.

Jack Conway in his next article in "Untold Stories of the Ring" reveals how Schmeling became heavyweight champion of the world.

They'll Do It Every Time -- Hatlo

The Bruins leave late this afternoon for New York... With the exception of Charlie Sands, who will not make the trip, the Bruins are in perfect condition for Rangers... According to Dr. Tom Kelley, Sands will be ready for Thursday's game.

Julius Hagal didn't come here with Les Canadiens... Babe Bibeart ran the club and did a fine job... Incidentally, Halse is well qualified to manage a N. H. L. club... He won his spurs as a defense man as well as a forward.

The New York Madison Sq. Garden is not the only rink that gives way to outside attractions during the playoffs... The Detroit Olympics has a tennis match, or something, booked for Tuesday night, as the Red Wings-Les Canadiens series will open in Montreal... The Wings finished a notch higher than the Frenchman and had the choice of ice for the first and third games.

"Bill" Clapper is a real sportsman... He refused to accept credit for the goal he scored in the first period because Ray Gietliffe ticked the puck with his stick... Ray might have deflected the shot into the corner but fortunately he just got hold of a piece of it and didn't even alter its course... Clapper's version was "I'll do him more good than it will me"... Did you ever hear of a baseball player refusing a base hit? Frank Leahy, Ed McKeever and Johnny Duize have developed into good hockey fans in two games... Ag Smith, who hasn't been seen here much this season, handled a good game, which was a fine accomplishment because there's nothing more difficult than refereeing that type of game... The players were simply going through the motions and the natural inclination is for officials to become lax.

Paul Hays is on the hospital list with a bad back... He will be ready for the Red Wings... Little Hushy Bauer got cracked on his left foot in the third period and for a few seconds he looked as though he was badly hurt... He stayed in and felt no ill effects after the game other than a small tender spot on his ankle.

During one of his European hockey tours, Walter A. Brown, general manager of the Garden and Arena, had a run in with the Czech authorities for playing a Czech man from in Czechoslovakia... Cecil Dillon, a very important cog in Lester Patrick's machine, may be lost to Rangers for the series... Dillon was injured in Toronto last Saturday night, when he was thrown into the boards by Reg Hamilton... He was carried from the ice.

ENTRY FEE MUST ACCOMPANY ENTRY BLANK

By WALTER KILEY

Before the week is out New England's bowling legions will be flocking to Jack Stafford's Huntington Club, making merry pin music as the fourth annual Boston Evening American-Daily Record grand candlepin championships break the barrier.

Starting on Saturday next and for 13 successive days—Sundays excluded—the mammoth fields will try for the several elusive titles which make this annual tourney the greatest in the East.

As tomorrow night's deadline on entries approaches, the mails return applications in huge lots, so now it is increasingly apparent that a record field will compete.

In today's mail was the massive lot of entries received from John Ambrose, the proprietor of Kenmore Recreation and Central alleys, and donor of a beautiful trophy to be awarded one of our 1939 champions.

Friendly John has many more coming. But in this batch was found the team entry from his Cambridge Central alleys of Leo Baker, Jack Williamson, John Broussard, William Seger and Vic Saganay, and another from the same alleys of Harold Gilden, William Westcott, Walter Bishop, Roy Beck and H. Ruvenius.

Still a third Central team is John King, Ed Baker, Pete Cash, Jack King and Art Wiley.

TEAMS GALORE

From Kenmore Recreation comes a team of Art Ternus, Ted Phillips, J. Gordon, Bill Prendergast and P. O'Neill; the General Electric service team of 100 Commonwealth avenue, Robert Blake, Allan Trask, Robert Smith, Albert Chase and Captain John Flaherty.

Kenmore Recreation is also to be represented by the New England Equipment team, Jack Lancaster, Charles Flanagan, Doug Bates, Sam Ferguson and Charles O'Connell.

From this same Back Bay spot is filed the open doubles entry of Frank Fallon and Eddie Mulvey of Brighton, the latter holder of five strings, professional world record of 641 pins.

It is impossible at this time to name hundreds of other individual and group entries now on the tourney files.

But what is of paramount importance at this writing is that entries close tomorrow night at midnight. Don't miss out. Mail your entry blank TODAY SURE.

AXE TO FALL SHORTLY AT B'S CAMP

By JOE CASHMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20—B. B. Shota:

Casey Stengel is never caught telling a strolling expert anything he hasn't mentioned to Boston scribes. . . . Correspondents in other big league camps complain they are scooped often in this fashion. . . . Stengel, in fact, won't give an itinerant observer half the information he's already handed out to his regular press gang.

Hees hear that Joe Medwick is determined to remain out of baseball unless he is given the salary he demands from the Cardinals. . . . The threat isn't worrying the St. Louis management at the moment. . . . El Adams Coast League rookie filling in for "Ducky Wucky" shapes up to the prize outfield find of the year.

The consensus is that the price the Reds paid for Billy Werber was closer to $15,000 than to the reported $25,000. . . . With Washington still now in the fold the National League could present a pretty big ball club composed of American League cast-offs. . . . For instance, there's Danny Mackden, Luke Hamlin, Joe Sullivan and Vito Tamulis for guides; Ray Hayworth back of the bat; Zeke Bonura, Tony Lazzeri, Noel Richardson and Werber in the infield, and Al Simmons, Fred Stinson and Carl Reynolds in the outfield.

Catch George Kelley of the Bees confesses that he has been responsible for two changes in baseball rules. . . . He once hit a home run to win a game for the Giants in the last of the ninth and ran to clubhouse after hitting first base. . . . The rule at that time said a ball hit out of the park was a home run.

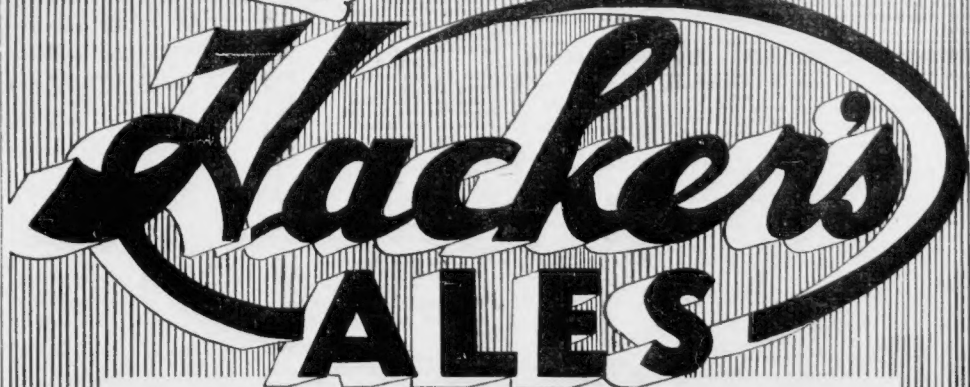

After George's stunt, it was ordered that a later must circle the bases before any homer could be official. . . . And it was Long George who suggested Vince DiMaggio fly-dropping to make double plays last year. . . . Finally, the rule makers decreed that with runners on first and second or with the sacks full and less than two out, the umpires should rule the batter out and protect runners on routine flies to the outfield whether caught or not.

While Casey Stengel ponders over whether to send "Lefty" Mayor, Cuban rookie, to Fresno Thompson at Hartford or Bob Coleman at Evansville, those few pilots are begging Al Lopez for a few lessons in Spanish, the only language this promising kid hurler speaks or understands. . . . "Mayor has learned one English word," reports Stengel. "He can say 'beef-steak,' proving he's a very smart young man."

The axe will fall on the Bees squad within a few days. . . . Fresno Thompson will be off for Charleston, W. Va., on Friday to start the Hartford squad training and a few of the rookies who've been working with the varsity down here will go North with him.

Life of a Cub's | Curfew Rings
Ball Player | At Midnight

By WARREN BROWN

AVALON, Cal., March 20.—One of our correspondents has registered what may be a legitimate beef . . . He argues that we have been writing bits and pieces about the Cubs in training for a good many years but that we have never presented a complete picture of what a ball player does during an entire day at Avalon . . . Well, if he can stand it, we can . . . So draw up a chair . . .

THE CUB GETS AN 8:30 CALL in the morning . . . It used to be 8 o'clock in Charlie Grimm's time, because Charlie was wont to get up at 6 o'clock himself and began to get lonesome by 8 . . . Then the Cub breakfasts, either in twosomes or groups of as many as five . . . Roommates generally eat together . . . and dress is very informal . . . There is some letter writing done after breakfast, and radios are going in most of the rooms . . . Practice begins at 11 o'clock, but most of the players begin drifting toward the clubhouse some earlier than that . . . A select few come back to the hotel after practice and, if the dining room is still open, do the best they can . . . Many of them follow practice by playing golf on the island course . . . More letter writing, since the only outgoing mail leaves on the 4:15 boat and the postoffice closes a half-hour before that . . .

WE HAVEN'T SEEN ANY tennis-playing Cubs this Spring, nor has Larry French done any badminton playing . . . On special occasions, after practice some of the big outdoor men go horseback riding, or hunt the wild goats and wild hogs back in the hills . . . Some of the boys use the late afternoon hours for a siesta, and some of them have mastered the art of sleeping while a radio is going full blast in the room . . .

AN OCCASIONAL CHECKER PLAYER shows up when there is nothing else to do . . . Gabby Hartnett has legalized poker playing while his men are at Avalon . . . The game generally gets going in the late afternoon and resumes after dinner . . . Dinner is at 6:30 and all the lads step out of their sports clothes and adopt successful young business man attire . . . There are several of the wives in camp and a few kiddies . . .

AFTER DINNER CARD GAMES are resumed . . . The players who have to keep diplomatic relations with the little women usually wind up in pinochle or bridge games . . . Some of the (temporarily) unattached play rummy, but the poker game gets the largest attendance . . . The island's cinema palace gets a good deal of the business in spite of a succession this Spring of the dullest films obtainable . . . Some of the lads go in for bowling, and there are a few pocket billiard artists in the party . . . There isn't much lobby sitting, and its accompanying yarn spinning this year . . . Nor have we noticed much reading . . .

THREE TIMES A WEEK there is a keno game in the hotel, and that gets quite a battle . . . There is some roadwork done by a few of the lads' evenings, on the general theory that a walk from the hotel into what is known as the "Loop" might find a place open after nine o'clock . . . No one how yet found one, not this Spring, at least . . . But there is never any harm trying . . .

THE CURFEW RINGS AT MIDNIGHT . . . That is to say, all activity is supposed to cease then . . . However, there is no hard and fast rule on this as long as no one gets too far out of bounds . . . This Spring the club has not been equipped with any house cops, and because of that some of the lads has been inclined to try and put something over . . . As a matter of fact, there are few of those, save the card players, who are still in view as late as midnight . . . And that seems to be a fairly comprehensive report on what a Cub does in his waking hours at Avalon.

Maloney After New Mat Career

Jim Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, may stick to wrestling if he beats Bull Martin in the feature bout of the Boston Arena grappling show, Wednesday night, a bout which will be refereed by Jack Sharkey.
Maloney wouldn't say yes or no to this question today as he raced through a long workout at a local gym, impressing a handful of grapplers and experts who were looking on.
Shamus is plenty big enough, rough and tough when the occasion calls for it; has had sufficient mat experience and qualifies in all other departments.
Promoter Sam Price will be ready to give Maloney steady work at the Arena as a wrestler if Jim conquers Bull Martin and looks capable in so doing. In fact, there are several wrestling promoters in the vicinity who will be at Arena ringside ready with propositions.
It's a big chance for Maloney, who wrestled in Florida rings before giving up the mat industry for his scheduled ten-round skirmish with Buster Carroll of Lowell at Mechanics Hall here next Friday night.

Zannelli at Work
WORCESTER, March 20.—Ralph Zannelli, the original "roughhouse kid," is busy at training work for his scheduled ten-round skirmish with Buster Carroll of Lowell at Mechanics Hall here next Friday night.

Bruins End Season With 7-5 Win

three-goal first period. Early in that stanza, Clapper broke up a Canadian attack deep in his own zone and whipped the puck up to Bill Cowley, who was at the blue line. Hill broke away with Cowley took a pass at the French defense and beat Claude Bourque with a fine angle shot.

For the next 10 minutes, the fans witnessed many rushes, but few shots on the goalies and no tallies. With less than five minutes to go, Cowley, Hill and Conacher staged a three-man attack and when they got inside the defense, Conacher had the puck and let fly at Bourque, who made the save but was unable to clear before Roy had regained possession of the disc and slipped it into the cage.

Two minutes later, with all of the Bruins milling around in Canadian territory, Clapper received a pass back from Gettler and drove a long drive at the French citadel. Gettler was standing about eight feet out in front of the crease and he attempted to "hunt" Clapper's shot, but his best effort was a "foul tip" and the puck sailed merrily on and into the nets.

FRENCHMEN START

Trailing by three goals starting the second period, the Flying Frenchmen took advantage of a Bruin let down and scored twice in about three minutes. "Toe" Blake set up the first goal, which was made by Johnny Gagnon and then caught his own rebound to test Frankie Brimsek as he raced through the crease. From the press stand, it looked as though Lou Trudel had pushed the rebound home but Brimsek declared that it was Blake.

Five minutes after Blake's goal, Eddie Shore broke down the ice. At the French blue line, Shore passed out to Hollett on the right wing and Cy Wentworth "rode" the "Flash" down the boards and between the goal. But Hollett managed to center the puck to Shore, who beat Bourque with a lightning shot.

The Bruins began to coast again, after Shore's tally, which gave them a two goal lead, and as a result before the end of the period, Georges Mantha laid a scoring pass on Polly Drouin's stick and Les Canadiens were back in the game.

CHEAP TALLY

In the first minute of the third period, Herbie Cain raced down the left wing boards and he was carried right around the cage. As he reached the off post, Cain attempted to centre the puck. Brimsek dropped his stick on the ice to intercept and the puck took a freak hop and came to rest in the net, a very cheap goal. And, before the crowd realized what was going on, Polly Drouin scored his second goal of the game and the Frenchmen were out in front, 5 to 4.

Apparently, the Bruins didn't like the idea of trailing for they began to play some serious hockey. But, it was after half time, before they were able to pull up on even terms. Roy Conacher scored the all-important goal, after he had missed a wide open net on his first try. The Bruins were staging a power play, when Roy found the puck on his stick and Bourque out of the cage. Roy shanked his shot and the puck flew wide of its mark. He came around the opposite side and as Bourque was scrambled back to his post of duty, snapped a shot which was on center, sending the game into overtime.

Red Sox and Bees Both Win Praise

Feminine Fan Is Great Booster

Bees or Red Sox?

I find hundreds of fans are trying to decide this question, and also to get some of the 12 baseball tickets I am offering this week for the best questions on this subject.

Bees fans are certain Casey Stengel has a better ball club than Joe Cronin. The followers of the Sox are just as confident that the American League club would knock its National League rival for a loop if they were to meet.

There will be three pair of tickets for the Sox and three pair of tickets for the Bees. Send me your views. Address Jack Conway, Boston American, Winthrop square, Boston.

Keep your letter within 250 words and write only on one side of the paper.

Here are some of the latest letters:

Rose Cecconi of Somerville writes:

"Dear Jack Conway:—The reply of Mr. Frank Hart of Jamaica Plain to Mr. Joseph Clancy's letter was not up to par. Mr. Clancy's letter referred mostly to the small amount of publicity given to the Bees. I agree with Mr. Clancy, the Bees are almost forgotten, not only in your paper but in all other newspapers.

"Of course I am only a woman fan and suppose that I know very little or nothing about the sport of baseball (that's the general idea of most men). I go to about 30 Bees' games and about the same amount of Red Sox games yearly, and I don't mean on ladies' day either, although I really first learned to enjoy baseball on ladies' day a few years back and have since been a great fan.

"I really think that both teams give all they have, so why not give them the same amount of boosting?"

"Mr. Hart should not blast the players that are no longer on the team (I would like to see him out there). And as for Tony Cuccinello, I personally think he is a grand second baseman—as good as on most teams.

"His fielding is great and he is not so bad at bat. If the Red Sox played out at the Bee Hive they would have less 300 players also. Why I have seen some singles and doubles out at Fenway Park that would have just been pop flies out at the Bee Hive.

"Both teams are Boston's own, so why not be partial to whatever team may be playing here. Let's not be partial to either league. Let's keep the great Boston tradition—the greatest sport city in the world.

"Therefore, let's call a truce and give both teams the same space on your paper, and every other Boston news.

"Three cheers for Mr. Stengel and his men, also to Mr. Cronin and his men. Both are doing a grand job.

"Here's hoping that we will have a ten cents World Series some day.

"Mr. Conway, you keep up your good work. All my friends read your column every day and find it very interesting.

"A Sox and Bees fan."

ARENA AMATEUR CARD LURES 64 HOPEFULS

Sixty-four punching youngsters will throw padded gloves with ferocity tonight at the Boston Arena in eight classes of competition when the Irish American A. A. offers another of their weekly amateur boxing presentations.

The bouts will start promptly at 8 o'clock and at least four hours of milling will have elapsed before the final winner of the evening has been declared. All boxers must report at the Arena at 6 o'clock tonight to weigh in and pass physical examination.

The directors of the "Irish" club will use tonight's contests as one means of selecting a team of battlers to represent Boston in the big intercity show they will stage at the Arena next Monday night.

As a matter of fact the offering can be called a tri-city show as the best in the amateur ranks from Buffalo and Philadelphia will invade the Hub to match punches with the "pick" of the New England range.

A fine lot of exponents of the manly art of self defense have signed up for tonight's battles. There are eight bantams, 12 featherweights, eight welters, 10 middleweights and three heavies in the open classes. Four novices have signed in the 147.

Among the outstanding performers carded for action are Tony Pisano, North Adams; Emilio Spirdiore, Lawrence; James Bannon, Jamaica Plain; Ray Fournier, Manchester, N. H.; John Ficarillo, South Boston and Joe Monaco, Providence in the 118 pounds.

N. U. Grid Squad Out Tomorrow

While Northeastern's winter season will not be officially over until tomorrow night when the basketball squad elects a captain for next year, attention will turn to spring sports this week with the inauguration of football classes by Jimmy Dunn, tomorrow, and the working out of battery candidates for baseball with Herb Gallagher on Wednesday.

Dunn plans to hold two indoor football sessions a week, concentrating on freshmen. If weather permits, he will have several outdoor workouts as well.

Conway Heads For Southland

Jack Conway's Mr. Boston in Florida hopes to visit the training camps of the Bees and Red Sox and to write about the horse racing at Miami.

Mr. Boston will get the color and sparkle of Florida into his columns, and also the names of New England people new in the sunny South. Watch for "Mr. Boston in Florida."

Test Flight's End—Curious crowds gather about the wreckage of the huge four-motored Boeing stratoliner which crashed during test flight over Alder, Wash., and killed 10 men. Witnesses say the 33-passenger ship plummeted straight down from 10,000-foot altitude.

Two on a Horse—Mrs. Mary Regan (left) and Mrs. Bessie Mueller, both of Roslindale, gloat a bit as Irish Sweeps ticket brings them "Perfect Pair," a starter.

End of trail—John Henry Howland, 25-year-old New Hampshire youth, right, sits disconsolately in conference with Judge Mount in Corpus Christie, Texas, where
